1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2 I. INTRODUCTION

3 Through lies and material omissions to board members, auditors, 4 minority shareholders, the Securities and Exchange Commission
5 ("SEC"), and the broader investing public, defendant Andrew A.
6 Wiederhorn ("Wiederhorn") caused defendant FAT Brands Inc. ("FAT") to 7 give him $47 million in undisclosed compensation, which Wiederhorn
8 and his codefendants fraudulently categorized as loans from both FAT 9 and its affiliate, Fog Cutter Capital Group Inc. ("FOG"), and upon 10 which Wiederhorn paid no income tax. (See, e.g., Dkt. No. 1 11 ("Indictment") ¶¶ 1-2.)

12 When FAT's outside auditors grew concerned and requested "more 13 details" from FAT's counsel, Allen Sussman, "to support" the 14 fraudulent representations that the funds flowing to Wiederhorn were 15 permissible and that "the loans" from FAT to FOG were not flowing to 16 Wiederhorn "personally," Wiederhorn emailed Sussman, who then emailed 17 FAT's outside auditors the "support" they'd requested. (Schleifer 18 Decl. Exs. A and B. ("Sussman's Email").) Some six weeks later, 19 Sussman emailed an additional "Memo to [the] FAT Board," about "the 20 Intercompany Loan" between FAT and FOG ("Sussman's Memo") to which 21 Wiederhorn adverted when he sent a materially misleading "supplement" 22 to that email to FAT's Board.

23 Sussman's communications turned out to be critical in mollifying 24 FAT's board and its outside auditors, and ultimately permitted 25 Wiederhorn to siphon another $8 million from FAT's coffers.
26 (Schleifer Decl. Ex. C.; see also Indictment ¶¶ 95-102, 128, 130, 27 132, 134.) FAT has improperly asserted privileges over both of these 28 critical documents.

1 Because Sussman's Email was prepared not for any litigative
2 purpose but instead to "support financial filings and gain auditor 3 approval," Sussman's Email was never privileged in the first place.
4 United States v. Textron Inc. & Subsidiaries, 577 F.3d 21, 31-32 (1st 5 Cir. 2009); United States v. Adlman, 134 F.3d 1194, 1203-04 (2d Cir.
6 1998); see also Eastman v. Thompson, 594 F. Supp. 3d 1156, 1182-84 7 (C.D. Cal. 2022) (ordering production of documents that "were not 8 made in anticipation of litigation"); cf. United States v. Ruehle, 9 583 F.3d 600, 609-13 (9th Cir. 2009) (CFO's statements to attorneys 10 failed the "made in confidence" test for attorney-client privilege 11 when made for "the purpose of disclosure to the outside auditors").

12 Even were Sussman's Email privileged attorney work product¹ when 13 created, however, Sussman's decision to send it to FAT's outside 14 auditor waived any such privilege. Middlesex Ret. Sys. v. Quest 15 Software, Inc., 2009 WL 10673943, at *6 (C.D. Cal. July 8, 2009); see 16 also, e.g., Medinol, Ltd. v. Boston Sci. Corp., 214 F.R.D. 113, 115-17 17 (S.D.N.Y. 2002).

18 For all of these reasons, the government requests an order from 19 this Court permitting the government to review Sussman's Email and 20 related work product and communications on the same subject matter.

21 Alternatively, even were Sussman's Email and Sussman's Memo 22 otherwise privileged, any such privileges would also have been 23 vitiating by the crime-fraud exception. See, e.g., In re Grand Jury 24 Investigation, 810 F.3d 1110, 1113 (9th Cir. 2016). And under the 25 first step of the two-step procedure established by United States v.
26

¹ Defendants have emphasized repeatedly to the government that 28 Sussman's Email was attorney work product but was not an attorney-client communication.

1 Zolin, the government believes it has established a "factual basis 2 adequate to support a good faith belief by a reasonable person that 3 in camera review of [Sussman's Email and Sussman's Memo] may reveal 4 evidence to establish the claim that the crime-fraud exception 5 applies." 491 U.S. 554, 572 (1989); see also United States v.
6 Christensen, 828 F.3d 763, 800 (9th Cir. 2015).

7 Accordingly, if the Court rules that Sussman's Email is 8 otherwise privileged, the government's prosecution team also requests 9 that the Court agree to review, in a subsequent filing submitted by 10 the privilege-review team, an unredacted version of Sussman's Email 11 to determine whether the crime-fraud exception applies.² The 12 government likewise requests an order directing defendant FAT Brands 13 to produce to the Court for in-camera review an unredacted version of 14 Sussman's Memo for the same purpose.³

15 II. STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS AND IDENTIFIED COMMUNICATIONS

16 As noted and alleged, and among other schemes and crimes, 17 Wiederhorn caused FAT to compensate him to the tune of roughly $47
18 million in undisclosed income, which Wiederhorn and his codefendants 19 fraudulently categorized as loans from both FAT and its affiliate, 20 Fog Cutter Capital Group Inc. ("FOG"). (See, e.g., Dkt. No. 1

22
23 ² As exemplified by Exhibits A and B to the Schleifer 24 Declaration, there were various email offshoots relating to this 25 topic between FAT's outside auditors, Wiederhorn, Sussman, Hershinger, and others; the government requests that the Court order
FAT to produce such offshoots for purposes of the Court's Zolin review.

26 27 ³ Whereas FAT's auditors have produced unredacted versions of 28 Sussman's Email to the government, the government does not similarly have an unredacted version of Sussman's Memo. Nor, as noted supra, does the government possess unredacted versions of offshoots of Sussman's Email, although FAT does possess such versions.

1 ("Indictment") ¶¶ 1-2.)⁴ By mischaracterizing these illegal 2 distributions as "loans," Wiederhorn was able to mislead the IRS as 3 to his financial picture and avoid preexisting tax debts as well as 4 additional assessments of income tax. (Id. at ¶¶ 35-42, 52-80.)

5 Although Wiederhorn, FAT's CFO, Rebecca D. Hershinger
6 ("Hershinger"); and FAT itself often retroactively classified
7 distributions to Wiederhorn as "loans" and "intercompany transfers"
8 from FAT to FOG, in reality Wiederhorn often simply caused FAT to pay 9 his credit card and other bills and wire additional funds directly to 10 him. (See, e.g., Indictment ¶¶ 55-66.) As set forth below, those 11 and related transactions eventually drew the scrutiny of FAT's 12 outside auditors, and Wiederhorn's and Hershinger's material
13 misstatements and omissions to FAT's auditors predicate Counts 14 Eighteen through Twenty of the Indictment in this case. (Id. ¶¶ 131-15 32.)

16 A. Sussman's March 12, 2020, Email to Outside Auditors

17 In February and March 2020, FAT's outside auditors began to 18 scrutinize some of the suspicious transactions constituting the 19 scheme. (Id. ¶¶ 84-92.) In response, Wiederhorn misled them, as 20 evidenced by the first email in the chain containing Sussman's Email, 21 an auditor's March 6, 2020, email to Wiederhorn, which summarized 22 their oral discussion and Wiederhorn's "interpretation" "that the 23 loans are allowable if they are to [FOG] and not you, personally."
24 (Schleifer Decl. Ex. A. at 4.) Given the apparent risks of self-

25
26
27

⁴ Wiederhorn's scheme in this regard was an outgrowth and 28 continuation of similar conduct he undertook in connection with FOG's predecessors in the 1990s when he took and forgave some $65 million in prior loans, which conduct culminated in his pleas of guilty to two felonies in 2004. (Id. ¶¶ 25-32.)

1 dealing and the fact that “[r]elated party disclosures are a hot 2 button focus issue for the SEC and the PCAOB,” however, the auditors 3 requested “more details” and “anything we can get” from FAT’s then-4 outside counsel, Allen Sussman, “in writing to support” Wiederhorn’s 5 representations that the funds flowing to him were permissible and 6 that “the loans” were not flowing to him “personally.” (See id.)

7 The next day, Wiederhorn forwarded the auditor’s email to 8 Sussman. (Schleifer Decl. Ex. B.) The following week, Sussman 9 emailed the requested analysis directly to FAT’s outside auditor, who 10 then forwarded the same to Hershinger.⁵ (Schleifer Decl. Ex. A at 1-11 3.)

12 B. Sussman’s April 24, 2020, Emailed Memo

13 Some six weeks later, on April 24, 2020, Sussman also emailed 14 Wiederhorn a “Memo to the Board,” which Wiederhorn forwarded onward 15 to FAT’s directors that same day. (Schleifer Decl. Ex. C.) Four 16 days later, on April 28, 2020, Wiederhorn sent FAT’s directors an “e-17 mail to supplement [Sussman’s] memo . . . re: the Intercompany Loan.”
18 (Id.; see also Indictment ¶ 95.) In that “supplement,” Wiederhorn 19 asserted,

20 I have navigated the cashflow of both FAT and FOG through 21 these difficult three years carefully keeping in mind the 22 best interests of all FAT shareholders as well as FOG shareholders. It does no good to create a situation where FOG is put at risk with its existing creditors, hence putting the NOL⁶ at risk.

24 ⁵ The email’s subject is “SOX 402 Question.” In relevant part, 25 Section 402 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78m(k)(1), provides, “[i]t shall be unlawful for any issuer . . . directly or 26 indirectly, including through any subsidiary, to extend or maintain credit, to arrange for the extension of credit, or to renew an extension of credit, in the form of a personal loan to or for any 27 director or executive officer. Counts Sixteen and Seventeen of the Indictment in this case allege criminal violations of that law.

28 ⁶ Net operating losses.

1 (Id.) Wiederhorn also misrepresented, “[f]unds at FOG are used to 2 pay pre-existing pre-IPO liabilities” and enumerated seven specific 3 liabilities with associated monthly payment requirements. (Id.)
4 Wiederhorn did not disclose, however, that he would route a majority 5 of the funds to be loaned from FAT to FOG to himself, and neither did 6 Hershinger or Sussman, both of whom were copied on this email and 7 attended multiple board meetings at which these matters were 8 otherwise discussed in depth.

9 C. Sussman's Communications Furthered Schemes

10 In these ways, the advice sought and given by Sussman in March 11 and April 2020 lie at the center of the frauds and related crimes 12 alleged in the government's case, and likewise predicated and 13 preceded the outflow of an additional $8 million from FAT to 14 Wiederhorn in the fraudulent form of loans in the second, third, and 15 fourth quarters of 2020. (See Indictment ¶¶ 95–102, 128, 130, 132, 16 134.)

17 III. Argument

18 A. Legal Standards

19 1. Attorney-Client Privilege

20 “The attorney-client privilege protects confidential disclosures 21 made by a client to an attorney to obtain legal advice as well as an 22 attorney's advice in response to such disclosures. The purpose of 23 the attorney-client privilege is to encourage full and frank 24 communication between attorneys and their clients”

25 Christensen, 828 F.3d. at 802 (cleaned up). Not all communications 26 involving counsel are privileged, however, and “[b]ecause it impedes 27 full and free discovery of the truth, the attorney-client privilege 28 is strictly construed.” Ruehle, 583 F.3d at 607. The traditional 1 eight-part test to determine "whether information is covered by the 2 attorney-client privilege" is as follows:

3 (1) Where legal advice of any kind is sought (2) from a 4 professional legal adviser in his capacity as such, (3) the 5 communications relating to that purpose, (4) made in 6 confidence (5) by the client, (6) are at his instance 7 permanently protected (7) from disclosure by himself or by 8 the legal adviser, (8) unless the protection be waived.

9 Id.

10 2. Work-Product Doctrine

11 The work product doctrine protects from discovery "documents and 12 tangible things prepared by his party or his representative in 13 anticipation of litigation," and "[a]t its core . . . shelters the 14 mental processes of the attorney" so that the attorney "can analyze 15 and prepare his client's case." Christensen, 828 F.3d. at 805 16 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). The "prepared in 17 anticipation of trial" requirement of the work-product doctrine 18 reduces to the question whether "it can fairly be said that the 19 document was created because of anticipated litigation, and would not 20 have been created in substantially similar form but for the prospect of that litigation." Eastman, 594 F. Supp. 3d at 1182 (internal quotation marks omitted; emphases in original).

21 Although the work-product doctrine is written into Rule 22 26(b) (3) (A) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, it has long been 23 applied as well to protect the mental processes of attorneys in 24 connection with criminal representation as well. E.g., United States 25 v. Nobles, 422 U.S. 225, 238 (1975). That said, "[t]he privilege 26 derived from the work-product doctrine is not absolute. Like other 27 qualified privileges, it may be waived." Id. at 239.

1 3. Crime-Fraud Exception

2 "[W]hen a client consults an attorney for legal assistance to 3 carry out a contemplated or ongoing crime," all "reasons for the 4 [attorney-client] privilege are eviscerated." In Re Grand Jury 5 Proceedings, 867 F.2d 539, 541 (9th Cir. 1989). Put another way, 6 "the attorney-client privilege does not extend to communications 7 between attorney and client where the purpose of that communication 8 is to further . . . illegality." United States v. Friedman, 445 F.2d 9 1076, 1086 (9th Cir. 1971). That is because "[t]he purpose of the 10 work product privilege is to protect the integrity of the adversary 11 process"; "it does not apply to foster a distortion of the adversary 12 process by protecting illegal" or even unethical actions by an 13 attorney. Id. (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).

14 As the above holdings suggest, the crime-fraud exception applies 15 equally to documents otherwise privileged as either attorney-client-16 communications or attorney work-product. See, e.g., Christensen, 828 17 F.3d. at 802 (analyzing and applying crime-fraud exception to both).

18 The crime-fraud exception also "applies even when an attorney is 19 unaware that the client is engaged in or planning a crime." In re 20 Grand Jury Investigation, 445 F.3d 266, 279 n.4 (3rd Cir. 2006); see 21 also In re Grand Jury Proceedings, 87 F.3d 377, 382 (9th Cir. 1996) 22 ("It is therefore irrelevant, for purposes of determining whether the 23 communications here were made 'in furtherance of' Corporation's 24 criminal activity, that [counsel] may have been in the dark about the 25 details of that activity.").

26 4. Zolin Process

27 Zolin established a two-step ex parte process to evaluate 28 "whether the crime-fraud exception applies to potentially privileged 1 materials." Christensen, 828 F.3d at 799. First, a court must 2 determine whether there is a "showing of a factual basis adequate to 3 support a good faith belief by a reasonable person that in camera 4 review of the materials may reveal evidence to establish the claim 5 that the crime-fraud exception applies.'" Id. (quoting Zolin, 491 at 6 572). "Second, if the government makes such a preliminary showing 7 based on evidence other than the potentially privileged materials 8 themselves, the court may conduct an in camera review to determine 9 whether the materials are privileged and, if so, whether the crime-10 fraud exception applies." Id.

11 B. Sussman's Email to Outside Auditors Was Never Privileged

12 Sussman's Email was never privileged because it was never 13 created because of anticipated litigation and because it was never 14 confidential.

15 First, Sussman's Email was never privileged under the work-16 product doctrine because it was never drafted or sent for any 17 litigative purpose; it was drafted and sent instead to "support 18 financial filings and gain auditor approval." United States v.
19 Textron Inc. & Subsidiaries, 577 F.3d 21, 31-32 (1st Cir. 2009);
20 Santander Holdings USA, Inc. & Subsidiaries v. United States, 2012 WL 21 3218535, at *1 (D. Mass. Aug. 6, 2012) (tax-reserve work papers not 22 privileged because "they are prepared primarily to fulfill accounting 23 and reporting requirements and not in anticipation of litigation, 24 even though they assess potential litigation"). This Court's holding 25 in Eastman, 594 F.Supp. 3d at 582, is also instructive in this 26 regard. Noting that the work-product doctrine applies a "because 27 of" and "but for" test, which asks whether "it can fairly be said 28 that the document was created because of anticipated litigation,"

1 Eastman held that many of the documents claimed as privileged in that 2 case were not privileged because they were not created because of 3 anticipated litigation. Id. at 582-84. Here, Sussman's Email was 4 not created because of litigation; it was created because FAT's
5 outside auditor requested reassurance that FAT's (fraudulent) 6 transactions were appropriate under SOX 402 and other relevant law.

7 Second, Sussman's Email was never communicated in confidence for 8 purposes of either the work-product doctrine or the attorney-client-9 privilege, because it was created at the request of FAT's outside 10 auditors and sent to them, for their consumption and analysis, in the 11 first instance. E.g., Ruehle, 583 F.3d at 607-609 (holding, "Ruehle 12 fails the fourth element of the traditional eight-part privilege 13 test" because "Ruehle's statements to . . . attorneys were not 'made 14 in confidence' but rather for the purpose of disclosure to the 15 outside auditors.")

16 Accordingly, and even before analyzing the question whether any 17 privilege over Sussman's Email was waived through disclosure to the 18 outside auditors or due to its role in a crime-fraud, this Court can 19 and should hold that Sussman's Email was never privileged in the 20 first place.

21 C. Any Privilege Over Sussman's Email Was Waived

22 For similar reasons, even were Sussman's Email privileged in the 23 first instance, the disclosure by Sussman's client, FAT, to its 24 outside auditors would have operated as a waiver. Numerous courts 25 have held that "disclosure of privileged communications to outside 26 auditors waives both attorney-client privilege and the work-product 27 protection." E.g., First Horizon Nat'l Corp. v. Houston Cas. Co., 28 2016 WL 5867268, at *10 (W.D. Tenn. Oct. 5, 2016). And that is

1 because, "[b]y certifying the public reports that collectively
2 depict a corporation's financial status, the independent auditor 3 assumes a public responsibility," and "owes ultimate allegiance to 4 the corporation's creditors and stockholders, as well as to the 5 investing public. This 'public watchdog' function demands that the 6 accountant maintain total independence from the client at all times 7 and requires complete fidelity to the public trust," rather than 8 alignment and confidentiality with the client. Medinol, 214 F.R.D at 10 18 (1984)); see also United States v. Hatfield, 2010 WL 183522, at *3 12 product protection).⁷

D. The Government Has Satisfied Zolin's First Step

14 The non-privileged evidence available to the Court in both email 15 chains containing Sussman's Email and Sussman's Memo suffices to 16 support Zolin's minimal threshold at the first step that there is a 17 "good faith belief by a reasonable person that in camera review of 18 the [privileged] materials may reveal evidence to establish the claim 19 that the crime-fraud exception applies." Zolin, 491 U.S. at 572.

20 The detailed requests by FAT's outside auditor, which predicated 21 Sussman's response to them, establish a good-faith basis to believe 24 ⁷ United States v. Sanmina Corp., 968 F.3d 1107, 1122 (9th Cir.

25 2020), is not to the contrary. Although Sanmina noted that 26 “disclosure of work product to a third party does not waive the 27 protection unless such disclosure is made to an adversary” or “has 28 substantially increased the opportunities for potential adversaries to obtain the information,” it held that a client’s production of memoranda to its outside law firm for purposes of issuing a valuation report was a waiver of attorney-client communications but was not a waiver of work-product protection before holding also that providing a memo to the IRS referencing those memoranda was a partial waiver of work-product protection. Id. at 1121-26.

1 that review of the substance of Sussman's "may reveal evidence" that 2 Sussman's advice was sought and provided in furtherance of a crime 3 and fraud, whether or not Sussman was a knowing participant in the 4 same. Id.

5 The same is true regarding Sussman's Memo to FAT's Board one 6 month later. In a misrepresentation critical to his fraud scheme, 7 Wiederhorn specifically described those misrepresentations as a 8 "supplement" to Sussman's "memo to the board re: the Intercompany 9 Loan." (Schleifer Decl. Ex. C at 1.) In other words, Wiedhorn's own 10 words establish a good-faith basis to believe that the substance of 11 Sussman's Memo to FAT's Board "may reveal evidence," that Sussman's 12 advice was sought and given in furtherance of multiple frauds and 13 crimes. Zolin, 491 U.S. at 572.

14 For these reasons, if the Court believes Sussman's Email is 15 otherwise privileged, the Court should direct that the government's 16 privilege-review team provide an unredacted version of the same to 17 the Court for purposes of its own ex parte in-camera review under 18 Zolin's second step. The Court should also direct defendants to 19 furnish the Court with unredacted versions of the offshoots of 20 Susman's Email (see, e.g., Schleifer Decl. Ex. B) as well as of 21 Sussman's Memo (id. Ex. C) so that the Court may conduct an in-camera 22 review of the unredacted versions of these communications under 23 Zolin's second step.⁸

25

26

27 ⁸ See Notes 2-3, supra. In addition to the emails exhibited to 28 the Schleifer Declaration, there is, for, example, another email from Wiederhorn to Sussman on March 13, 2020, produced in redacted form to the government at FATBRANDS_00459319.

1 IV. CONCLUSION

2 For the foregoing reasons, the government respectfully requests 3 that this Court hold that Sussman's Email was never privileged or, 4 alternatively, that any such privilege has been waived.

5 Alternatively, the government requests that the Court direct the 6 government's privilege-review team and FAT to furnish the Court with 7 the relevant unredacted versions of Sussman's Email and related 8 communications so that it may conduct an in-camera review of the 9 same.

10 The government further requests that the Court direct defendant
11 FAT to furnish the Court with an unredacted version of Sussman's Memo 12 so that the Court may conduct an in-camera review of that 13 communication as well.
